Your friend,

The primary purpose of education must be to preserve its existing form of government. Our present democracy can endure only if the young people are educated to share the responsibilities of that government.

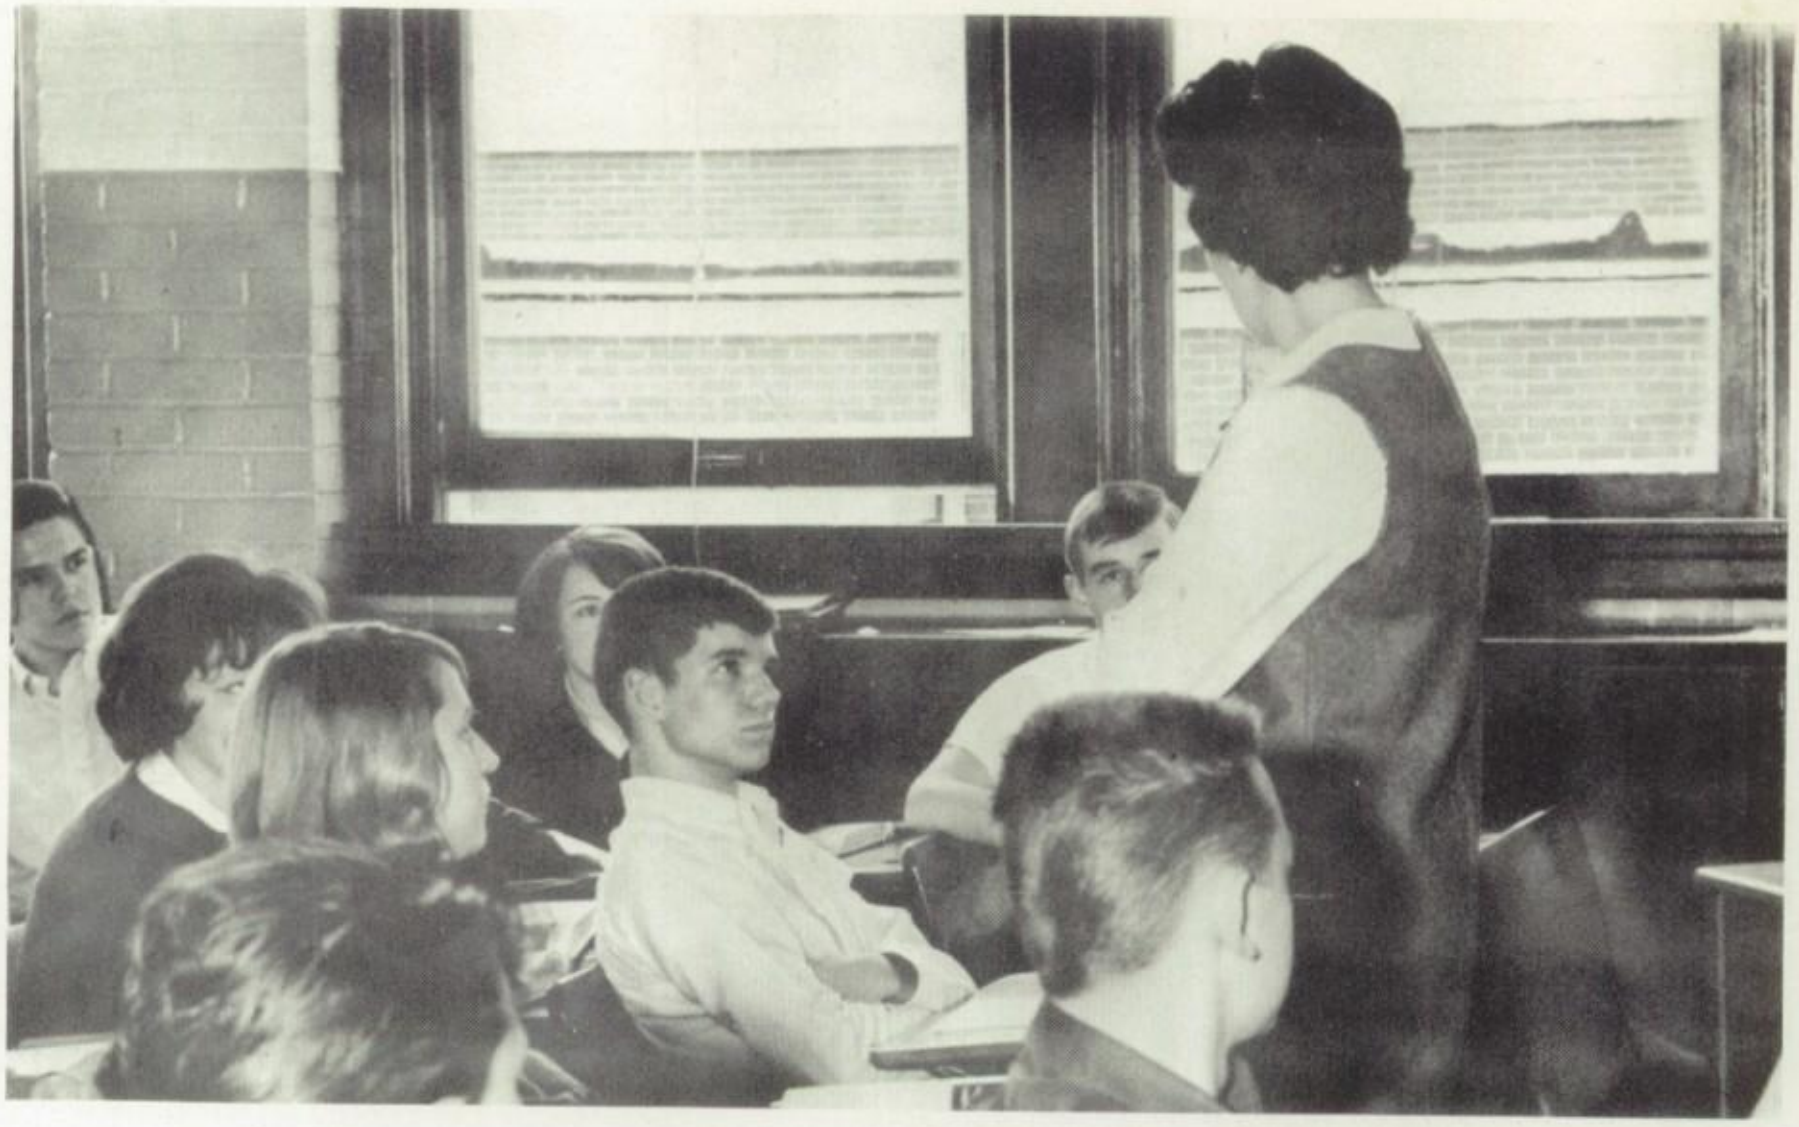
English and Math—

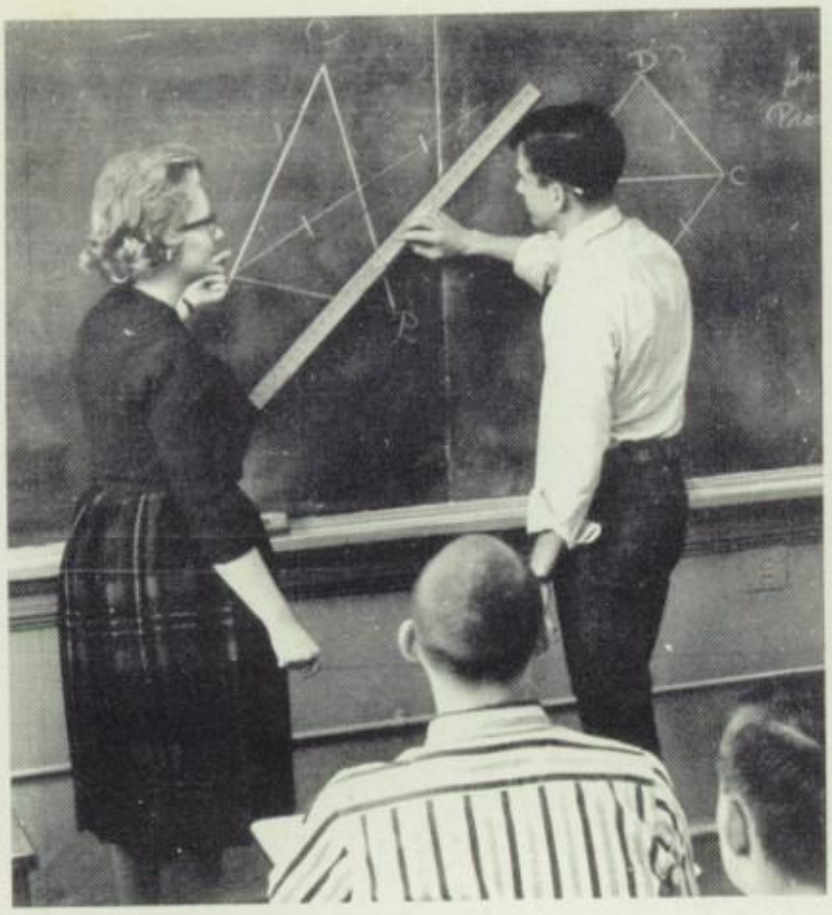


Mrs. Niequist seriously discusses with her class the use of English.

Keith Poteet asks Mrs. Niequist for some helpful information.

Because any person's ability to read the printed page, to understand another's ideas, to express his own thoughts, and to communicate with other members of society is restricted by his knowledge and use of his own language, the English department's primary purpose is the development of these basic skills in each individual student to the limit of his potential.

To a noble ambition for each student--a blending of essential skills with an understanding of himself and his fellow man through a complete study of the English language in all its various aspects--the Markleville English department is dedicated.



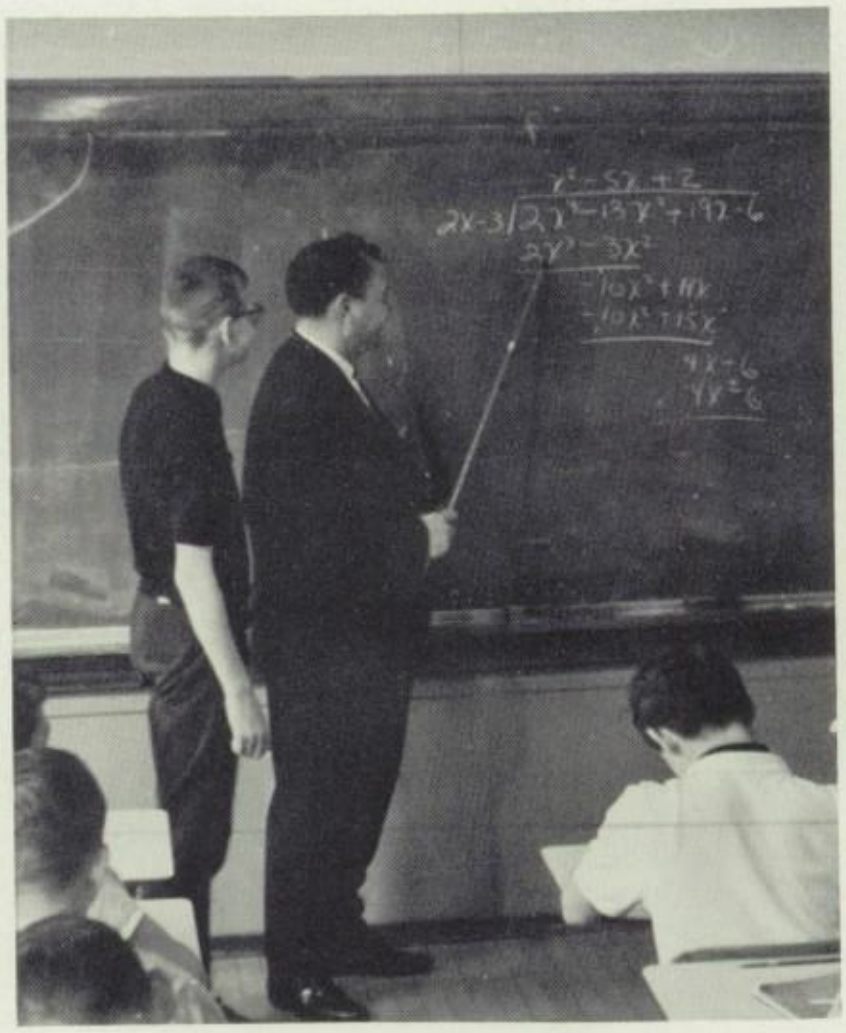
Jim Surface listens attentively to instructions given by Miss Birkinbine in geometry.

The fundamentals of math seem fascinating to Debbie Stohler.

Whether we are counting minutes left in the day or the amount of money we need for the week-end, we cannot escape using math in our day to day life. To meet the challenges that are set before us to solve, we seem to come across again and again the basic math we learn from the very beginning.

For those showing special ability and interest, M. H. S. offered an advanced math program including classes in algebra I and II, plane geometry, trigonometry and senior math, and college math.

Our mathematics department here at Markleville, is headed by two very capable teachers--Miss Birkinbine and Mr. Markle. These two persons have done much to further the interest in math and better the students here at Markleville.



Mr. Markle explains an algebra problem while Phil Mullins looks on.

We learn from the past . . . Improve for the future

A class listens attentively as Mr. Keller instructs them in history class. In U.S. history, students study about our country from the very beginning.

The history department strives to teach students the operations, methods, and principles of our government so that they will be able to meet its problems and recognize other governments which might be harmful to our freedoms. It also strives to teach students how to meet and cope with the problems of tomorrow and to live better with our neighbors.

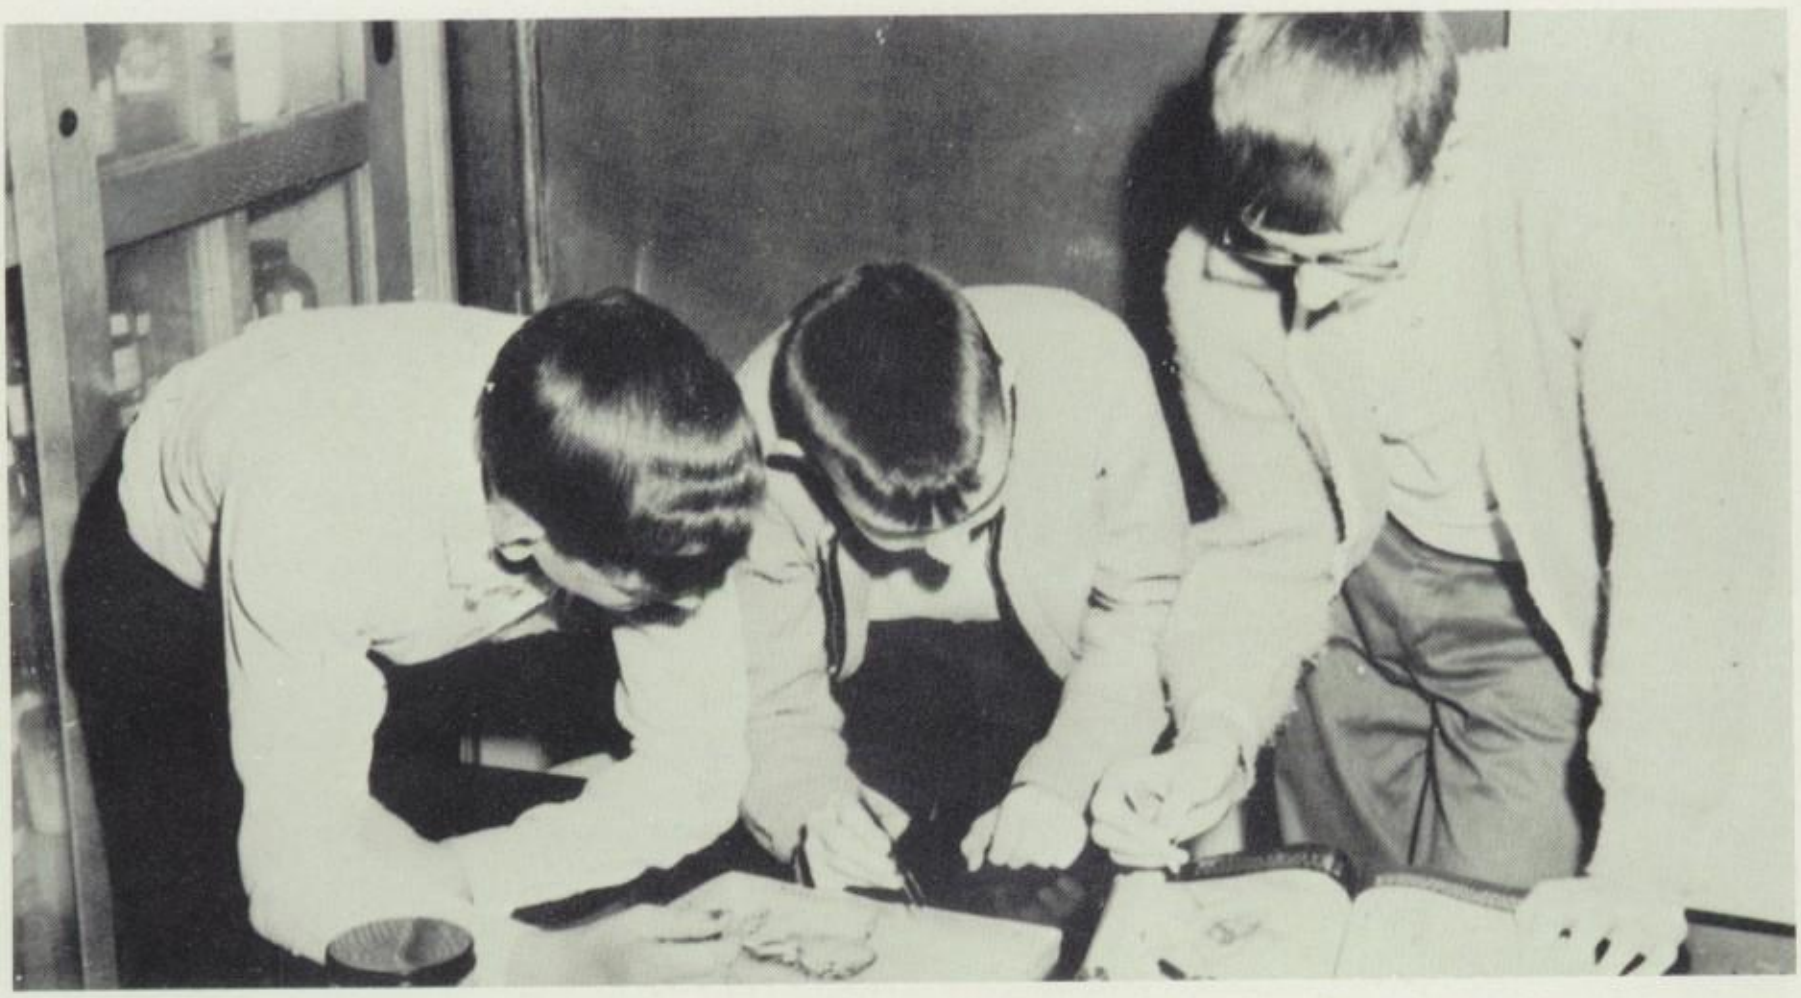
Deeann Kinsey and Noel Davis are learning the correct way to use the globe.

Mr. Keller and Barry Banks are looking for Timbuktu,!!!

The formulas for our lives are in this room

With the addition of new microscopes, a manikin, charts, and incubator, and other items of equipment, more student interest is being developed and the field of knowledge widened.

Mr. Moore helps Larry Sipes, Steve Cox, and Terry Rensel developing pictures.



Paul Smith, Dwight Elrod, and Phil Mullins dissect a frog in biology class.

We help ourselves further our careers for tomorrow

Nelda Schulte works out a bookkeeping problem on the comptometer.

Business was fun. . .in typing, rows competed in accuracy games; in shorthand, there were "word spell-downs"; in bookkeeping, the relief enjoyed when a problem came out correctly. The field of commerce differed from the regular curriculum and seemed like "a completely different world."

All students, some time during their life, seek employment. Pupils enrolled in the business curriculum trained for specific office jobs in which they could use skills of shorthand and typing. In addition, bookkeeping training and office orientation were offered to broaden their business outlook.

Everyone works like little beavers to get their answers to come out the same.

Home Economics builds domestic skills

The development of the individuals who are the future citizens of America is dependent upon the kind of homes they grow up in and the homemakers who are responsible for their health and well-being. Homemaking education is designed to help girls gain some homemaking skills and an understanding of human relationships which will help them to achieve more satisfying home living in their families today, and later as they marry. It is believed that education can help pupils learn better ways of meeting the situations in which they find themselves.

Now girls!!! Lana Boles and Joan Walters are trying to make something that will be pleasing to the stomach.

Setting the table is an important part of preparing a meal. Mrs. Flatt shows Pat Bronnenberg, Ainsley Rich, and Donna Cox the correct way. Or are they showing her?????

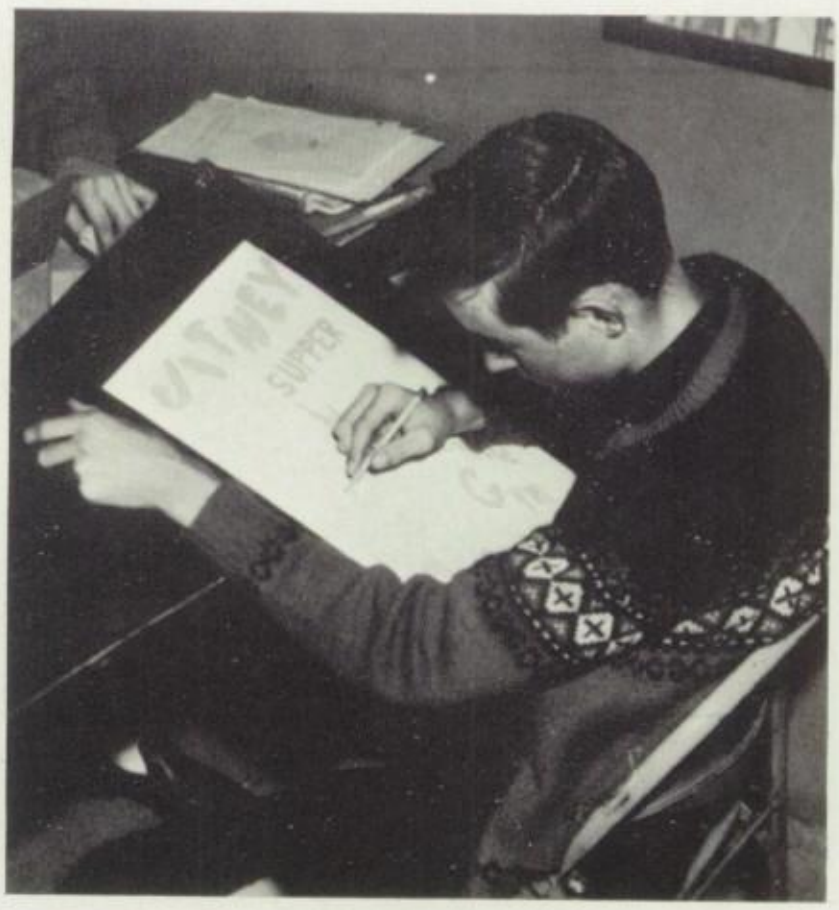
Diane Elmore plays the big seamstress role as Barbara Boles and Marie Kirby hand out a little constructive criticism.

We witness the finer things in life through art

Mr. Harrison explains the fundamentals of sketching to Steve Whistler.

We tried to develop self-confidence in our accomplishments in art. Although some of our creations were beyond recognition, we developed an appreciation for the visual arts.

Paul Sabo, Theresa Randolph and Debra Randolph make a mess in art class.



Posters are Mark Matlock's speciality.

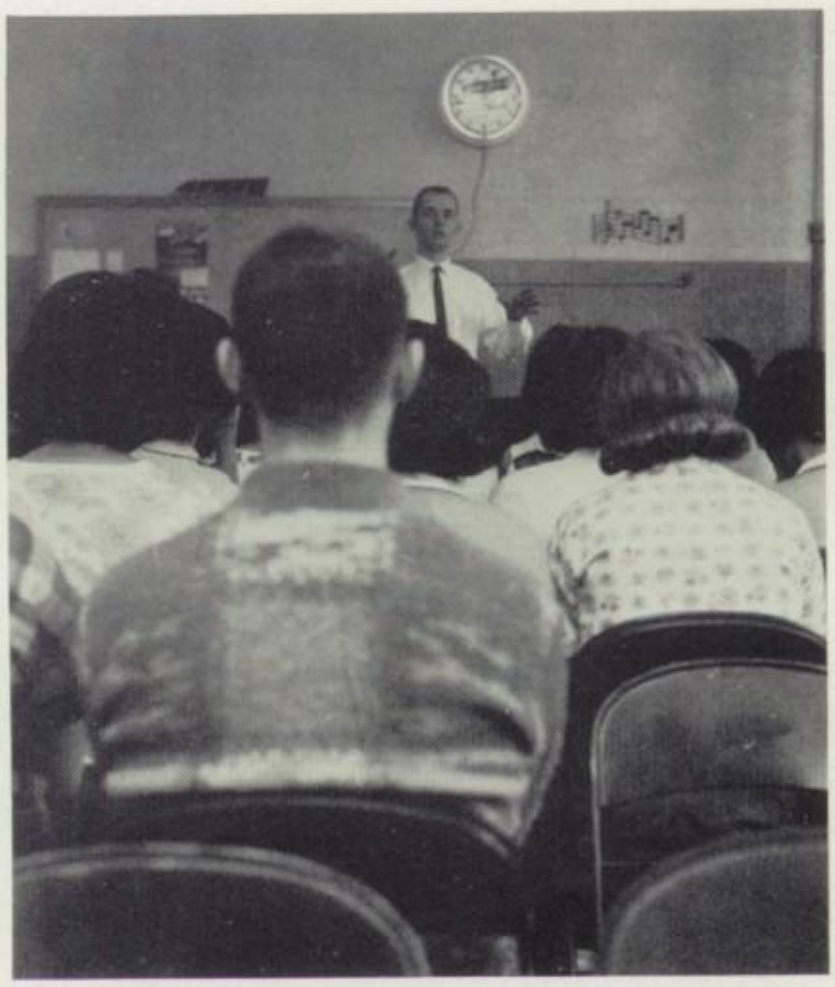
Music sets a pattern by which we govern our lives

State Choral Festival Delegates
Clay Smith, Sharon Elrod, Linda Schuyler, Linda Moore, Madonna Julian, Kenny Flesher.

The music department was one of the most active departments at Markleville. The chorus sang at convocations and participated in the spring concert as well as the Community Thanksgiving Service. They represented Markleville in the All-State Chorus held in Indianapolis. At Christmas time the group enjoyed Christmas caroling in the Markleville community. Our band added enthusiasm to the home basketball games and also participated in the United Fund Kickoff.

The majorettes, who are considered a part of the music department, presented the flag at our ballgames and performed half-time routines.

Students enrolled in music enjoyed the many contests and various activities offered in this department.



Mr. Battice expertly directs one of his daily chorus classes.

We shall drive into tomorrow from today

As sophomores, Tony Sisson and Anita Brown take instructions in drivers training.

The goal of driver's education is to teach young students and potential drivers the safety and responsibility needed when in control of an automobile. The inner goal of this course is to prepare students to be safe and responsible citizens of a future and growing America.

Before they drive, the students must check the engine of the car to see that it is in running order. Anita Brown, Keith Poteet, and Tony Sisson go through the procedure before they drive.

With our square and compass we design the future

The quest for a future occupation, for self-expression, and for individuality, plus the grinding daily routine of wrestling paper, compasses, T-squares, pencils, wood, glue, steel, paint, and nails into useful and meaningful projects were only a small part of the industrial art department to develop well-rounded students ready to face their futures.

Working at the welding torch are Terry Rensel and Gary Huffman.

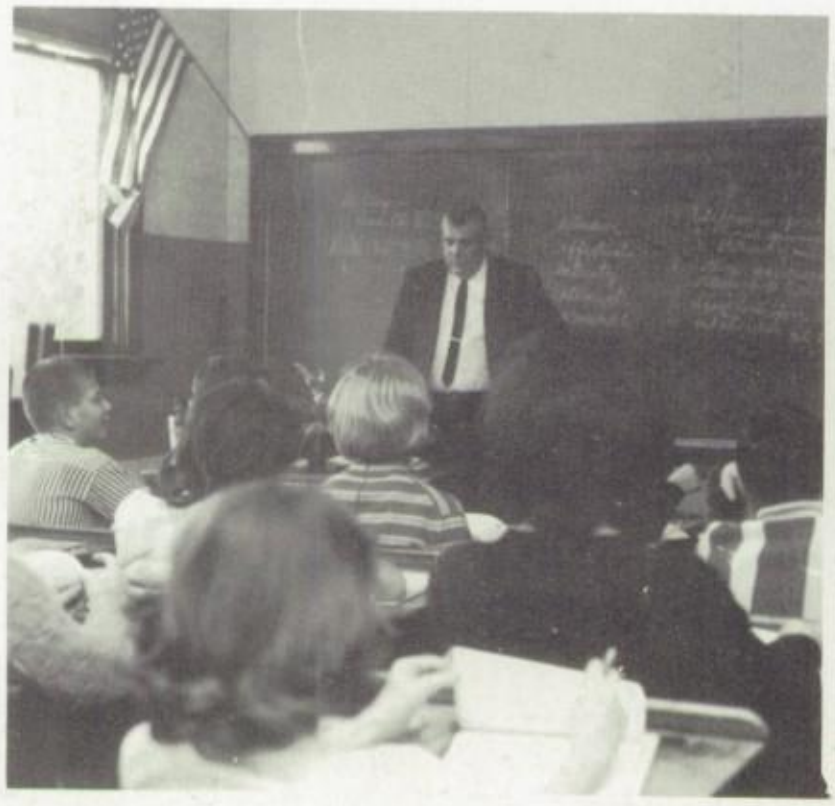
Mr. Jackson helps Terry Stanley with a mechanical drawing.

Our health comes before we work or play

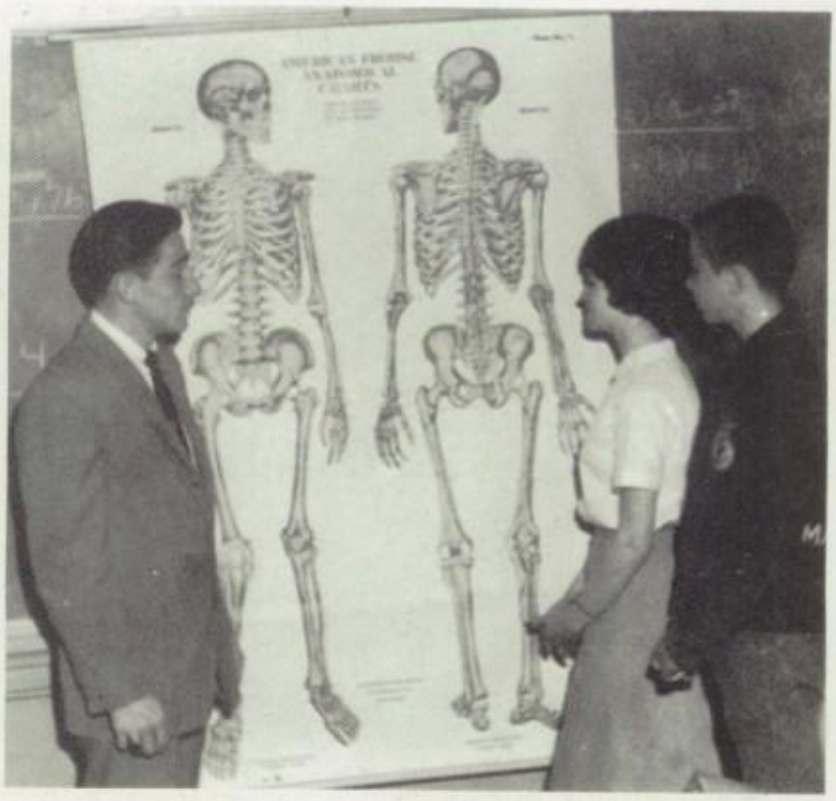
Mr. Harrison instructs his pupils in the art of artificial respiration.

To help make us aware of our physical fitness, students in health are taught facts concerning body structure and the functions of different organs. Movies, demonstrations, and reports, both oral and written, aided in making health a more meaningful subject.

With a background in health, each student of MHS was made healthier, happier, and more aware of the world around him.

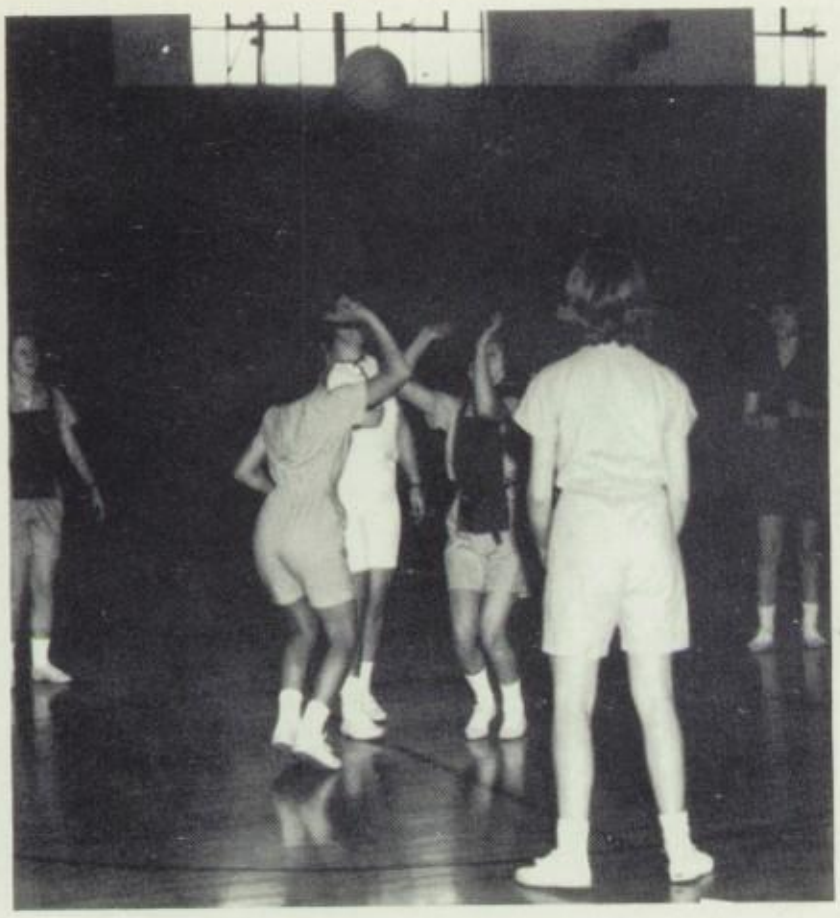


Mr. Smith leads his class into the study of health.



Mr. Harrison is aided by Anita Brown and Tony Sisson in the naming of the bodies bone structure.

A necessity of the past and a building block of the future

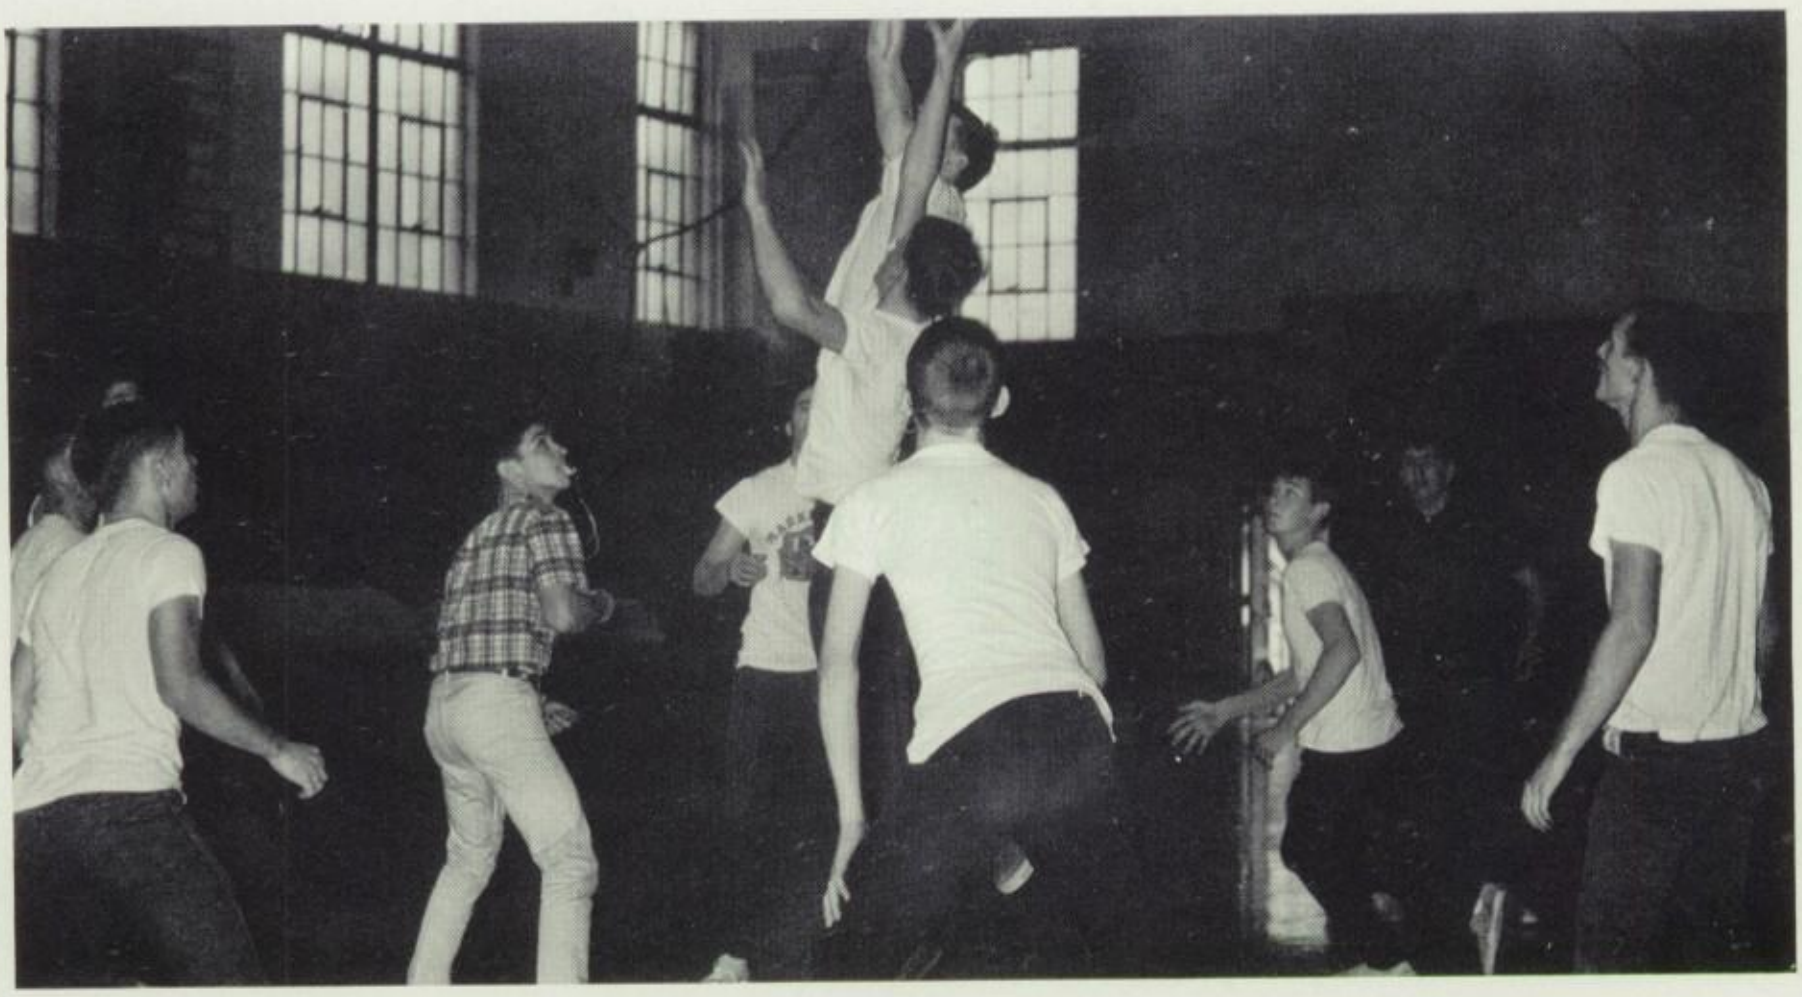


7th and 8th grade girls play girls basketball in physical education class.

To aid Markleville in the nationwide physical fitness program instigated by President Kennedy, Markleville engaged three teachers for their services to keep our students in good physical condition--Mr. Hunter, Mr. Keller, and Miss Collier.

Both the grade school and high school participated in the new program.

Physical education was stressed this year as one of the more important classes in the development of the body and mind. It strived to increase the concentration power of the mind, and the coordination of mind and body. It also sought to develop character, good sportsmanship, and the ability to get along with others.



Classes compete against each other as the boys play intramural basketball at noon hour.

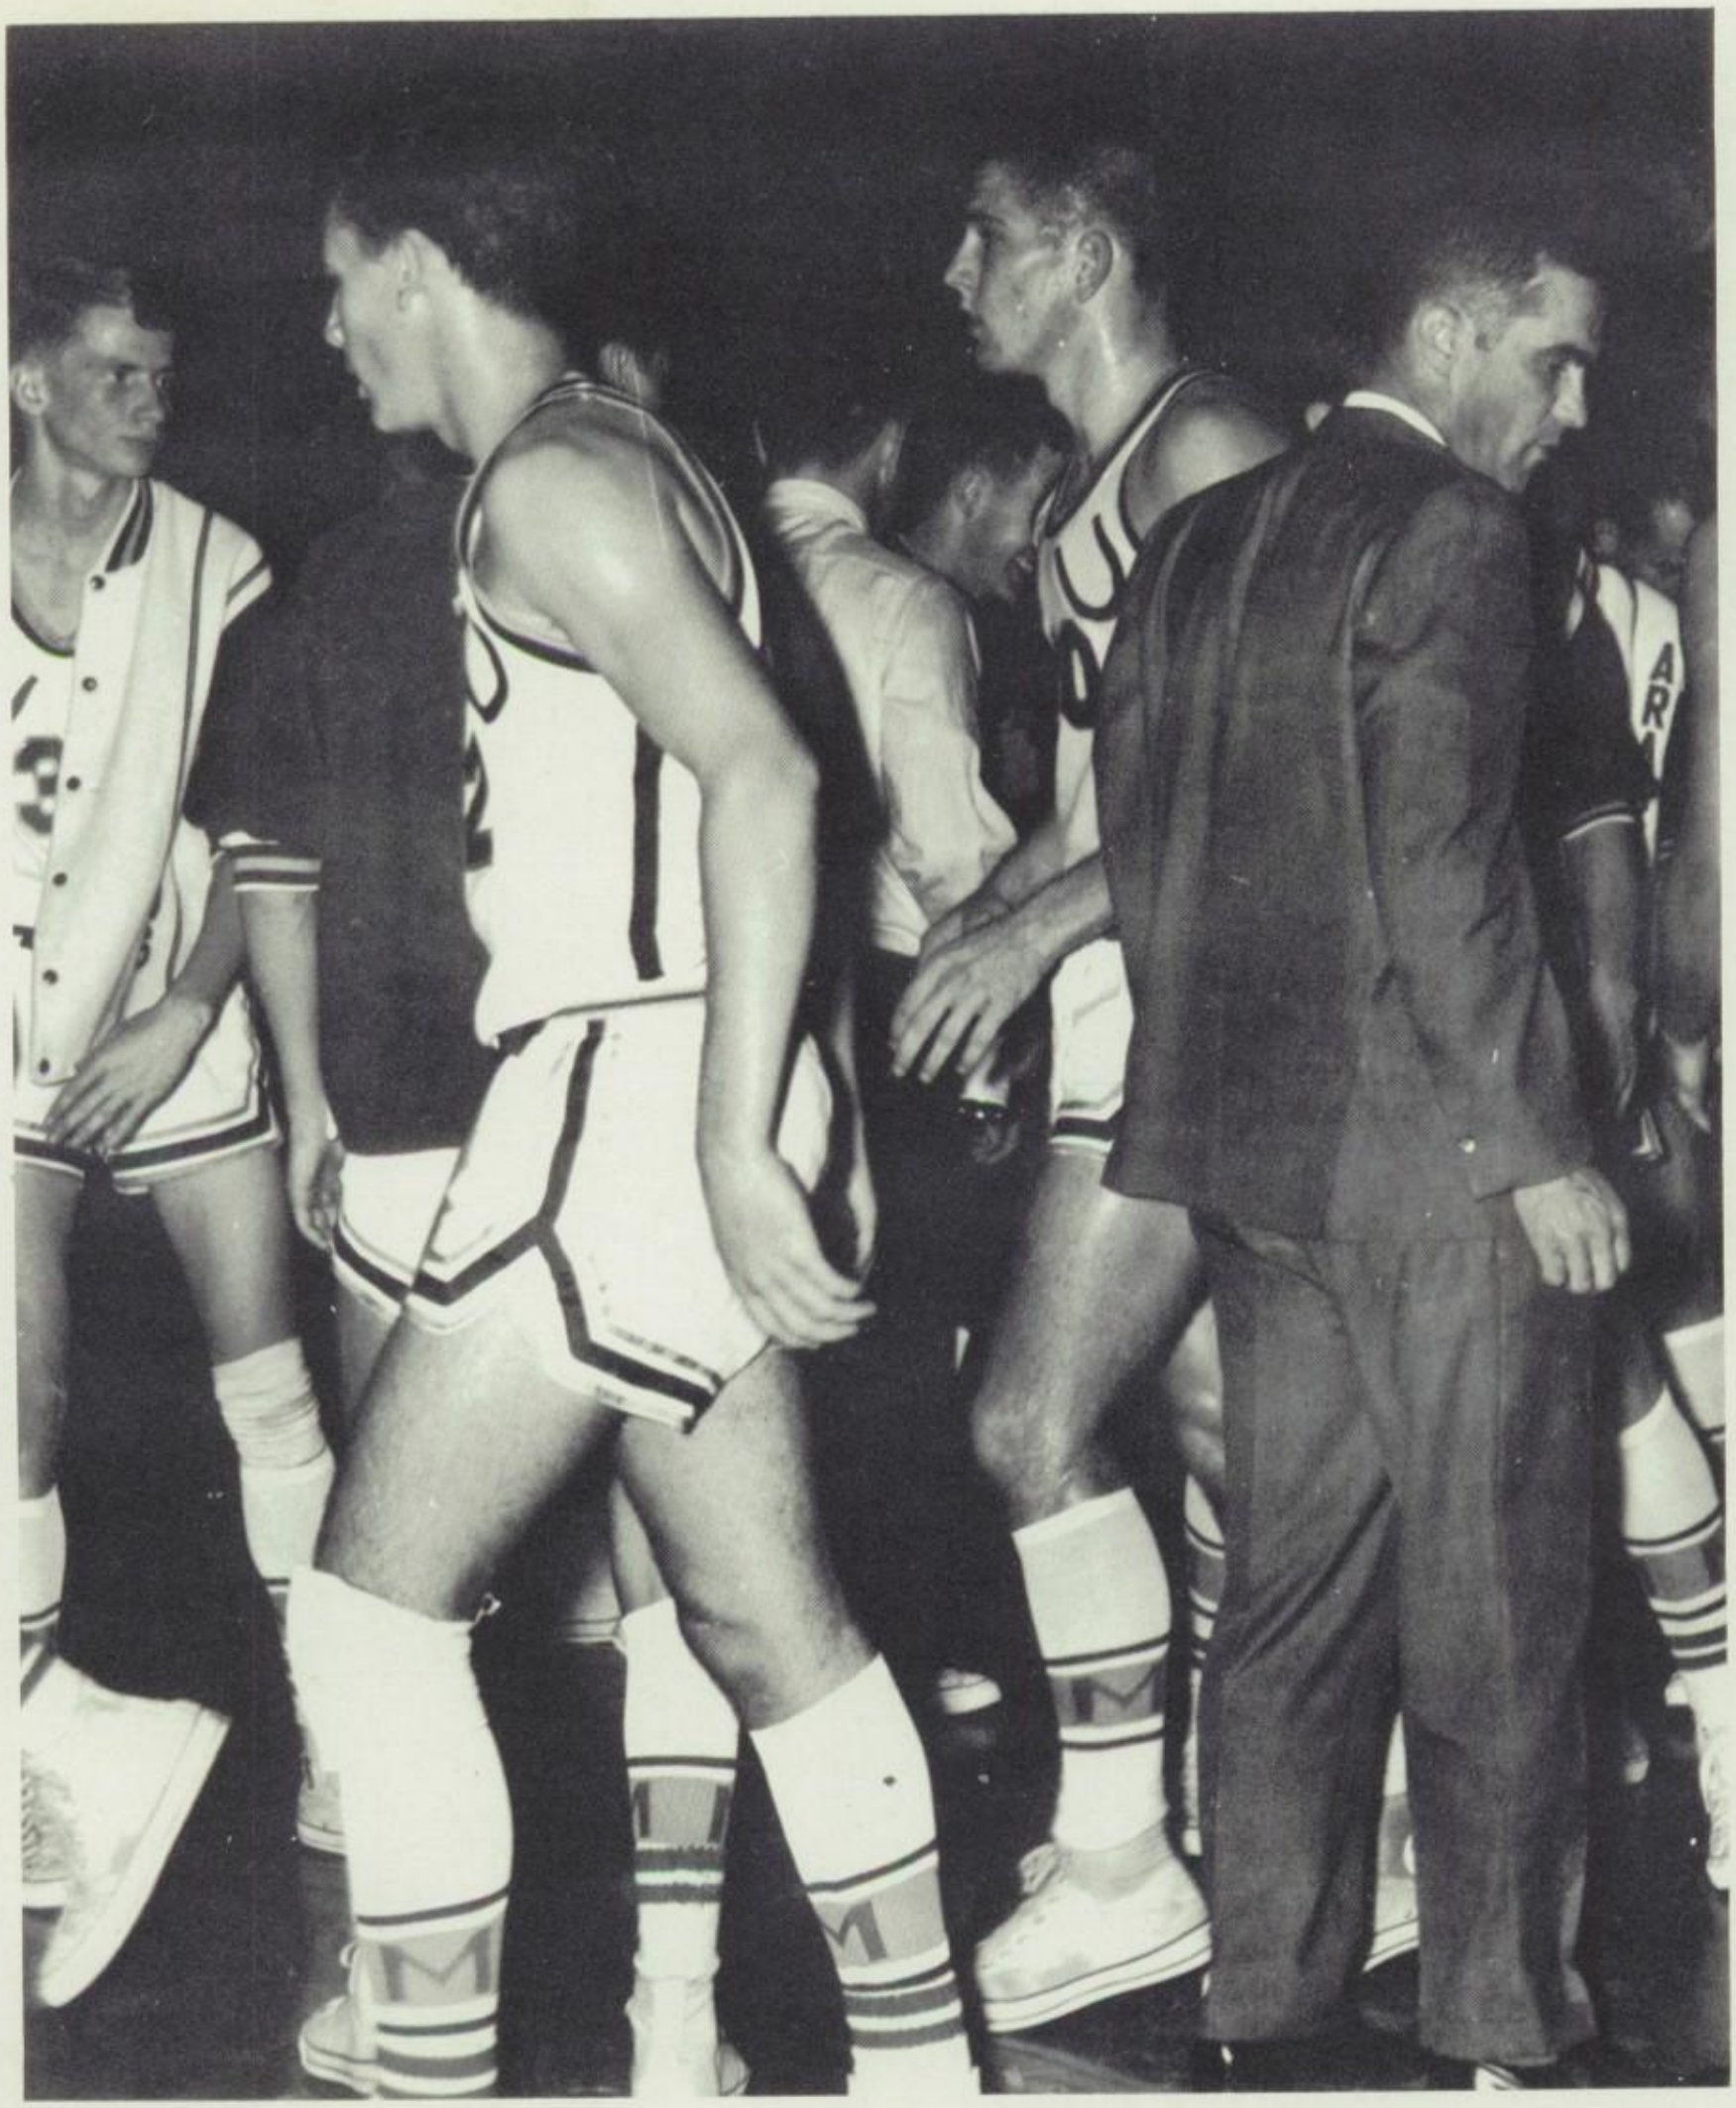
We built today out of our forefathers' sweat

Tom Fath shows off his driving skill on a tractor.

The Vocational Agriculture program was started 50 years ago. At that time, emphasis was on training boys to become farmers; today, emphasis is on teaching boys to be leaders in all agricultural related industries.

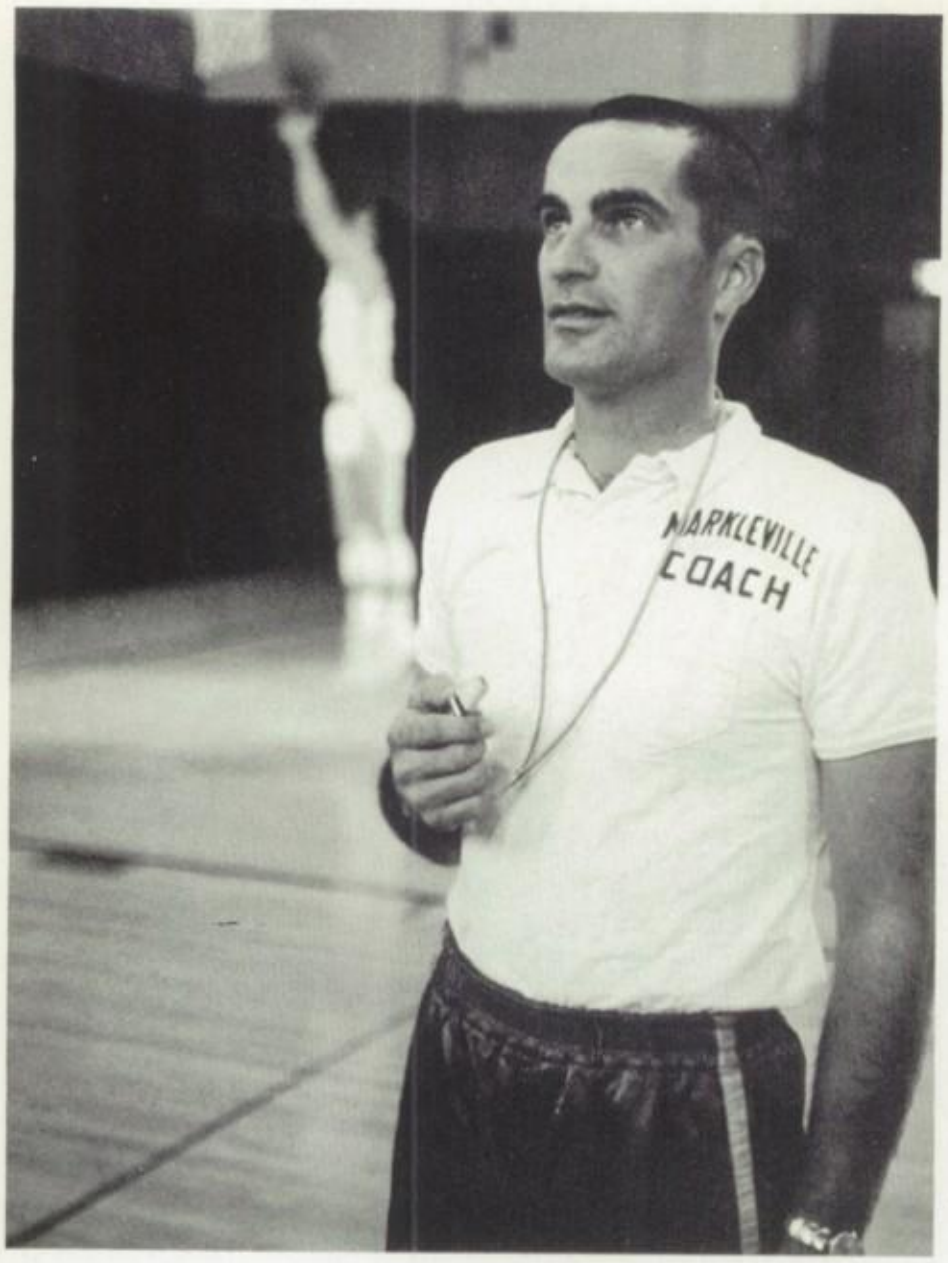
FFA was unlike other organizations because students enrolled in Vocational Agriculture to be a member and all activities of the FFA were connected with the daily teaching.

This grain is being judged by Dave Richardson and Bill Risley.



Athletics

The village Quintet takes top honors



As basketball season starts in Markleville, there are many excited fans around the area. This year there was much to be excited about. Besides having a winning season, the ARABIANS also won the Pendleton Tournament and the White River Conference with a won-loss record of 6 wins to 1 loss. The ARABIANS were up and down all season but finally ended the year on the up side. They defeated many good basketball teams and were defeated by a few poor ones. The team as a whole was hampered by injuries throughout the season and missed the performance given them by the injured. The ARABIANS, not being a big team, had to give lots of hustle and desire to win any game they won. We are sure the ARABIANS will miss the performance given them by the Seniors next year.

Baseball

Last season was one of the most successful we've had at Markleville in recent years. Under the direction of Mr. Keller and Mr. Markle, our baseball team finished in a respectable third place in the White River Conference with an impressive record of nine wins to five losses. This is a great honor to finish so high in a conference such as the White River Conference where the competition is so keen. The team had several chances to capture the lead but were unluckily edged out.

One of the major highlights of the season was the appointment of Darryl Gustin to the all-conference team which consists of players from all of the different eight conference teams. We're sure he will be missed along with the other senior boys when baseball season rolls around again.

Track and cross country are the most vigorously trained sports. Besides serving as a trainer for track and cross country, they serve a dual purpose, they also train the athlete for basketball and baseball as well. Track and cross country are two of the most oncoming sports here at Markleville.

As most of the fans have observed, we have two relatively young teams and this should prove to be a main factor in the sports in the years to come. Mr. Smith and Mr. Markle have 12 returning lettermen to their track team this year and Mr. Hunter will have all of his lettermen but one back next fall.

School Life

"APRIL LOVE"

Last year's prom with the theme "April Love" was held at Ball State Teacher's College in Muncie. The pastel decorations carried out the theme with pastel colored flowers, a wishing well, and a large flower as the queen's throne.

A dinner was held in the Cardinal Room before the dance. The dinner started at 7:00. Senior class president, Gary Kinsey, read the class prophecy and Junior class president, Ron Sayers, read the class will. Dancing was then enjoyed 'till midnight.

Fred Waring Jr.'s band carried out the theme by playing April Love while Dee Ann Stohler crowned Nelda Schulte as 1963-64 Prom Queen. Wanda Hardy and Karin Bronnenberg were her attendants.

Junior Candidate: Vici Abney and her escort, Fred Fisher.

'39 Team walked down "Memory Lane" at Homecoming

"Memory Lane" was the setting for the 1964 Homecoming at Markleville High School. Memories of games lost and games won were reminisced by the 1939 basketball team honored that night. Seven of the "Colliermen" were able to be there.

Jane Ann Jackey, 1963 Homecoming Queen, crowned Linda Hackleman as Queen in front of a crowd of nearly 1200 people.

The crowning ceremony was enjoyed by all, although the ARABIANS lost to Eastern.

Scholarship recognized—Awards Day

Salutatorian Dee Ann Stohler receives congratulations from Mr. Garrison.

Each year at Markleville, outstanding scholarship and citizenship are rewarded. Awards for excellence in history, math, English, drafting, home economics, agriculture, music, business, art, and science are given along with citizenship awards and various scholarships.

Athletic ability are also honored. Cross country, track, baseball, and basketball team members received various awards for their participation.

Awards Day proves more than ever the blending of scholarship and athletic ability visible in every M.H.S. student.

The "Greenies" join the ranks

One of the highlights of every freshman's first year of high school is freshman initiation. This year was no exception. Freshmen went through the rites devised by the Senior class to prove they were worthy of being called "Arabians."

The night program was cut out this year and only the school convocation was presented on October 16.

Each freshman was put through his paces to the enjoyment of the spectators.

Yearbook staff works with advisor Miss Ellis on '65 ARABIAN.

99 per cent perspiration + 1 per cent inspiration

Editor--Madonna Julian

Assistant Editor--Karin Bronnenberg

Business Manager--Marilyn Dickey

Subscription Manager--Sharon Elrod

—recipe for '65 yearbook

The preparation of the ARABIAN is quite a task for its staff. Finances must be established, pages have to correspond in the spreads, pictures must be taken and identified, and copy proof-read time and time again.

Karin Bronnenberg, assistant editor; Marilyn Dickey, business manager; and Sharon Elrod, subscriptions have been very steadfast to our goal--the final draft of the ARABIAN. Even when the going was rough and it seemed utterly impossible that we would meet our deadlines, we worked in journalism class, after school, and on Saturdays and, through some miracle, pulled through.

Miss Ellis gave her assistance and advice to us and was very helpful to our cause.

There have been many anxieties whether the ARABIAN would be accepted. However, the mere joy of giving the community something to cherish the rest of their lives is enough satisfaction to calm all the tattered nerves.

We hope you enjoy reading the ARABIAN as much as we enjoyed preparing it for you.

Madonna Julian, Editor

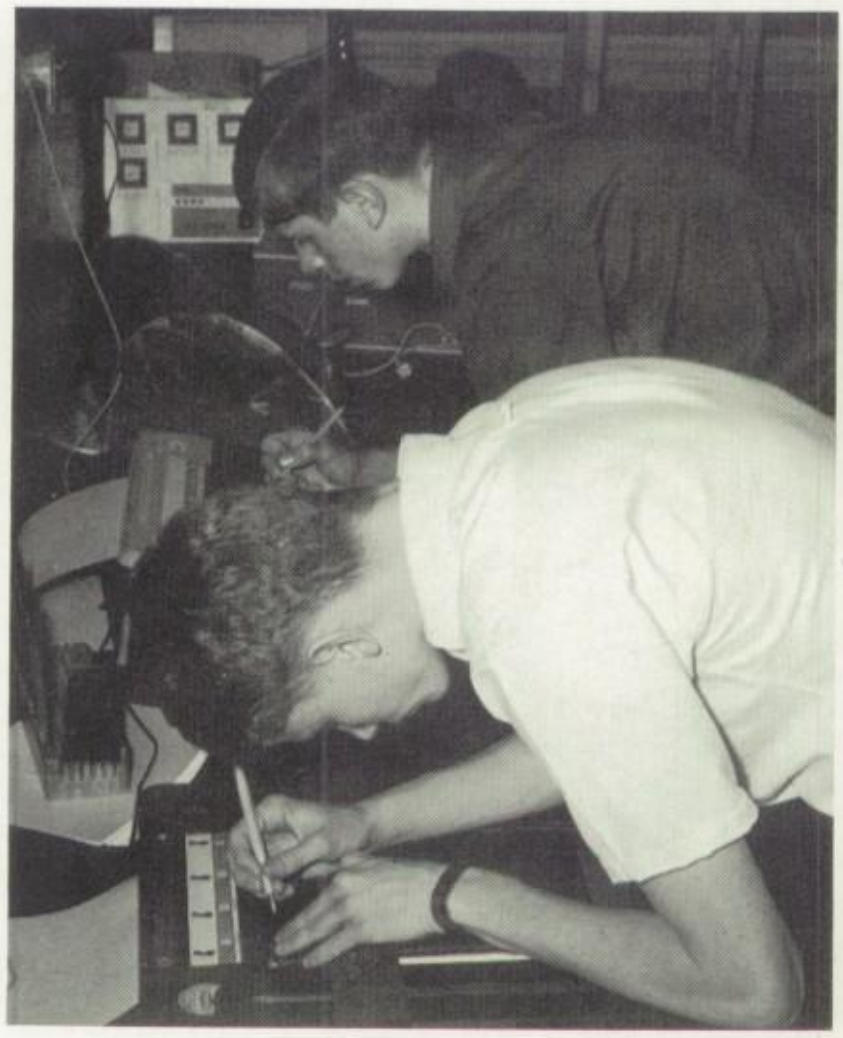
Junior Editors--Noel Davis, Vici Abney, Steve Stanley. We extend to them the best of luck on next year's publication.

HI TIMES

Miss Ellis, sponsor, Wanda Hardy, asst. editor (SEATED); Ainsley Rich, Editor.

Once every month Ainsley, Wanda, and Miss Ellis, published an issue of the HI-TIMES. With the help of the typists in journalism class, they were able to produce some very outstanding newspapers.

The HI-TIMES was circulated throughout the school and community. Everyone was informed of school happenings.



Patience is required to work on the mimeoscope, but Ronnie Sayers and Duane Milburn use their skill for work that must be done.

Richard Creason and Jeff Stoops run off the next issue of the HI-TIMES in the mimeograph.

The clock of life is wound but once
And no man has the power
To tell just when the hand will stop
At late or early hour.

Now is the only time you own
Live, love, toil with will Place not faith in "tomorrow" for
The clock may then be still.

OUR THANKS TO:

Miss Ellis, for her understanding and unfailing assistance on our deadlines.
Bill Walden, for his wonderful photography.
Doyle Fox, our Delmar representative, for his advice with our publisher.
The journalism class for their typing and copywriting.
Mr. Moore and his photographers for their much appreciated co-operation.
The art department for their fine art work.
The faculty for the time relinquished for the ARABIAN.
The subscribers and advertisers for their help in the money department.
The students, who have made this yearbook.

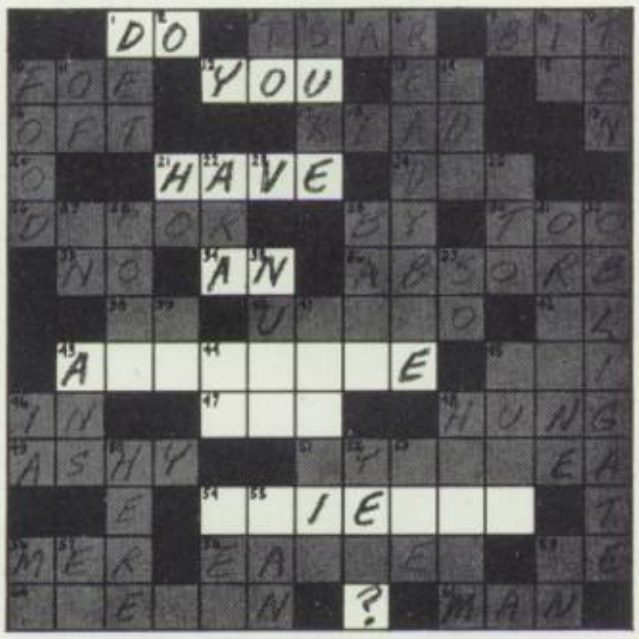
Karin Bronnenberg, Assistant Editor
Marilyn Dickey, Business Manager



43. Natural ability or talent for a given work.

47. In support of.

54. A branch of study concerning the observation and classification of facts.

If you've correctly filled in the spaces above, you may have already answered "yes" to the question.

It's for sure you're curious. You're a self-starter who takes pleasure in tackling problems. (We know because you just did!) That gives us something in common.

We at Delco-Remy are always solving "puzzles," looking into the unknown for answers that can improve our products. And why not? We're geared for it.

Our new Engineering and Research facility in Anderson provides our problem-probing team with the most completely equipped center of its kind in the world—including an electron microscope that can magnify samples up to 200,000 diameters ... and a spectrograph that enables us to analyze materials for their metallic elements to an accuracy of one part in a million.

Maybe you'd like to develop things like electronic ignition systems for cars or control devices for missiles. The challenge is great, of course. But so are the rewards and accomplishments.

If you feel at home in Indiana . . . and in a scientific atmosphere, you'll be right at home at Delco-Remy. Look us up after college. We'll keep a couple of problems on ice for you.

(Solution: 43. Aptitude, 47. For, 54. Science)
